Can the Migrants Speak? Cultural Critique and Engaged Anthropology in Argentina

Tuesday, March 27th at 4 PM in Francis Scott Key Hall 2120

Cynthia Pizarro is Professor of Sociology and Anthropology in the School of Agriculture at the University of Buenos Aires and an Independent Researcher at the National Scientific and Technical Research Council. She is the author of “We are Now Civilized”: Invisibility of Indigenous Identity in a Rural Area of Catamarca Valley and Cultural Politics of Peasant Struggles: Narratives about a Land Conflict in a Rural Area of Catamarca. Her most recent publication is an edited volume entitled Bolivian Labor Immigrants’ Experiences in Argentina which gathers research results of specialists who have studied the various ways in which Bolivian immigrants participate in certain labor markets in different urban and rural areas of Argentina. The book highlights key issues regarding the structural factors that pattern the integration of immigrants in certain labor markets segmented by inequalities.
